What's the purpose of this newsletter?

This newsletter aims to keep Local 17 members at WSDOT Headquarters in Thurston County informed about what is going on at your union. If you wish to contribute, please contact Union Representative Kristen Kussmann at kristen@pte17.org or (206) 328-7321, x110.

Arbitration Victory - Reduction in Force (RIF) Rights

A recent arbitration decision helps protect Local 17 members from being bumped by managers during a RIF.

On Sept. 8, Arbitrator Marvin Schurke ruled that a Transportation Planning Specialist 4 (TPS4) could not bump a Local 17 member Transportation Planning Specialist 3 (TPS 3). Management's action in "bumping" the TPS 3 and placing the TPS 4 in the position, therefore, violated Local 17's contract with the State of Washington.

Management had argued that its action was proper because a WAC (civil service rule) allows non-represented state employees in a RIF to bump into any position in their "class series." In his decision, Schurke said that the employer's interpretation is incorrect, as far as bumping into Local 17 bargaining-unit classifications.

The union argued that its contractual rights govern how nonmembers can become members of the bargaining unit, and that the collective bargaining agreement does not allow this sort of bumping.

Schurke agreed with the union, reasoning: "To justify the outcome it desires in this case, the employer would have needed to negotiate for and obtain the union's agreement on contract language explicitly giving non-represented persons a right to 'bump' into the bargaining unit. ... [T]he absence of such language from the parties' contract is fatal to the employer's case."

Kristen Kussmann, Union Representative, represented Local 17 at the arbitration. Other Local 17 staff and members also contributed to the arbitration including: Vince Oliveri, Natalie Kaminski, Yoko Kuramoto-Eidsmoe, Steve Morgans, and the grievant, Maria Mayrhofer. Oliveri, Morgans, and Maryhofer provided testimony at the arbitration.

Kussmann said, "Local 17 members are the true winners here. This represents a victory in the midst of the reductions in force that are happening at WSDOT."

Grievant Mayrhofer said, "I not only brought this grievance forward for myself fearing future RIFs and future bumping, but for other Local 17 members at WSDOT. The possibility of being bumped by a non-represented employee impacts other members as well. It is very good that these rules are clarified."

A copy of the arbitration decision is on the Local 17 web site: <http://www.pte17.org/units/state/dot/engineers/index.php>

Project Employees Concentrated in Headquarters

Local 17 learned via an information request earlier this year that the largest concentration of project employees at WSDOT is in headquarters. This request was made as part of Local 17's bargaining with WSDOT on reductions in force.

Many of the Local 17 project positions at WSDOT are in the State Rail and Marine Division and in the Environmental Services Office. There are project positions in Local 17's real estate services classifications, the Transportation Planning Specialist series, the Transportation Engineer series, and the Transportation Technician series.

If you have input on project employment at WSDOT, please contact Kristen Kussmann (kristen@pte17.org, (206) 328-7321, x110).

What has my union done for me lately?

1. Won an arbitration limiting non-represented state employees from bumping Local 17 members in a RIF (see other side)
  2. Demanded that WSDOT bargain the impact of RIFs (discussions with WSDOT are ongoing)
  3. Filed an unfair labor practice complaint against WSDOT for transferring Local 17 work at the 520 project outside our bargaining units without first bargaining with the union
  4. Protected Local 17 members' access to Commute Trip Reduction benefits (see July/August 2012 Insight, p. 10)
  5. Negotiated a master contract for the 2013-2015 biennium (subject to inclusion in the governor's budget and legislative ratification of the fiscal component). New language would:
    - Restore the 3% salary reduction
    - Move all members who have been at Step L for six consecutive years to the new Step M
    - Require that job openings (permanent bargaining unit positions) be posted for 7 days
    - Clarify and expand bump rights for RES members
    - Further restrict WSDOT's ability to use non-perms to eliminate overtime for permanent members.
    - Expand the maximum time on internal layoff lists from 2 to 3 years.
    - Add other benefits in such areas as: shared leave, inclement weather, performance evaluations, reasonable accommodation, and layoff and recall.
- In these negotiations, your bargaining team fought off employer proposals to expand transition review and trial service periods and change the definition of how to qualify for shared leave.

Additional information on these negotiations can be found here: <http://pte17statenegotiations2012.org/>
